Dulce's Life Story

Dulce Amor Thompson was born in Angeles City, Philippines to her parents, Federico Faustino and Felicidad Estrada Faustino. The youngest of 5 siblings, Dulce was part of a close-knit family which included her sisters, Liza Foster, Buds Spence, Dina Wood and her brothers, Edwin Faustino and Acesar Faustino.

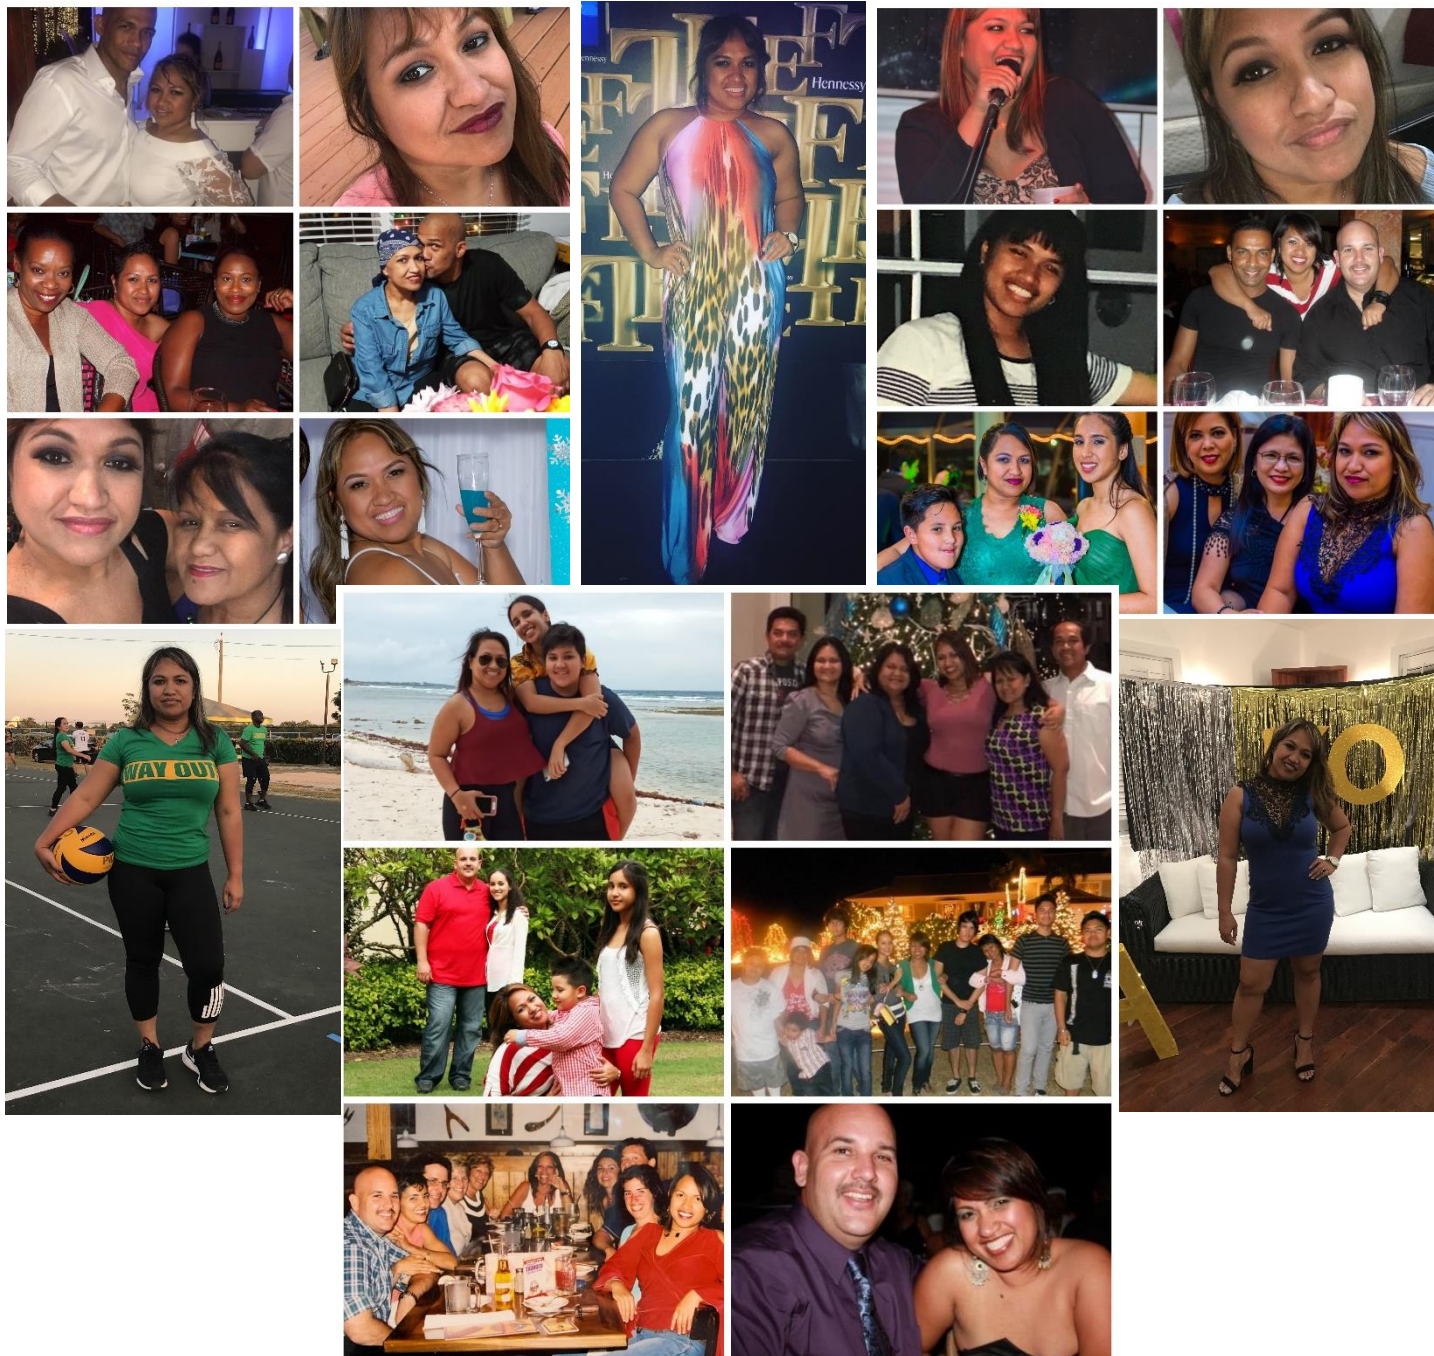

Growing up Dulce loved to play Volleyball and sing and dance. Nothing much changed in adulthood as Dulce still enjoyed karaoke, planning parties, and cooking – she was definitely someone you wanted contributing dishes to any event you were hosting! Her interest in Volleyball also remained and she could often be found on a Volleyball court.

While in the Philippines, Dulce completed a 2-year computer secretarial course then, at 19, she relocated to Grand Cayman to join her much loved family.

Although she initially worked at Texaco as a cashier for 1 year, there was no doubt that Texaco was but a temporary stop for Dulce on her career path. Dulce was employed at Citco, initially working in the filing room where both her smarts and her stellar work ethic were quickly noticed. Dulce made the most of every opportunity presented to her, taking accounting courses and working her way up to the position of Fund Accountant at Citco, where she remained as a valuable employee for 21 years.

In 1995, Dulce met, and fell in love with, Marcos Thompson. The Thompson family still remember Marcos gushing about the sweet, beautiful girl with the long, dark hair that he was completely enamored with. As such, no one was surprised when the two married in October 1997. Dulce then became a stepmother to Natalia Thompson, and later, gave birth to her own two children, her daughter Monina and her son Matthew.

When Dulce was diagnosed with cancer six years ago, her fighting spirit, her determination and her love of life were very evident. She
